FM Radio v1.1 Release Notes

Software Installation:

1. Insert the FM Radio diskette and copy the FM Radio application to any folder on your hard drive.
2. If you would like to use the FM Radio control strip, copy the FM Radio Module file to the Control Strip Modules folder in the System Folder on your hard disk.
3. Shut down the Macintosh.

Installation Warnings:

- Be sure to shut down and power off the Macintosh before connecting the FM Radio. Otherwise you can damage the ADB port or motherboard.
- Always connect the FM Radio directly to the Macintosh ADB port. Do not connect the unit to the keyboard or screen.

Tips:

- If the sound volume is low or mute, open the Macintosh Sound control panel, choose the volume setting, and make sure the volume is turned up. To avoid sound resource conflicts, quit the FM Radio application before opening the Sound control panel, and close the Sound control panel before reopening FM Radio.

- If you are experiencing compatibility problems with your Macintosh, go to our web site to download the latest version of the FM Radio application.
